Kikita

28 mm · Hardened 24-karat yellow gold

Design rendering

One heart, two halves

A heart in two places

The Kikita watch places a single purple heart at twelve. Its outline sits clear against the cream dial, with no continuous gold border in the design. The applied A.R. signature sits beneath it and small seconds mark six. A muted purple leather strap takes its colour cue from the heart.

The necklace is conceived around the same outline on a fine chain. The brief calls for two stones fashioned from one purple diamond, with each finished face showing a complete heart. The watch and necklace are designed to lie side by side in a single presentation box.

The proposed donor is a 0.15 ct Fancy Intense Purple diamond of natural colour, graded VS1 before cutting. GIA report 6234175554 identifies the original diamond. The yield, outlines, face-up colour and settings of the finished pieces remain subject to evaluation.

Gemstone selection

Proposed 0.15 ct Fancy Intense Purple, VS1 natural-colour diamond donor, GIA report 6234175554 as cited in the reference catalogue. This is the donor target, not a finished-stone grade. The two finished hearts require their own GIA coverage. A report describing natural colour may be appropriate for smaller finished hearts if accepted by GIA. Confirm cutting yield, matching and report eligibility before authorising the cut.

Every finished gemstone must be individually identifiable on a GIA report. The watch or set will include the report or a complete copy for each stone.
